DGF Principal: 'We're going to have football'

JOC Jon McMillan
Rota Coastline

After crunching numbers, going through different budget models and making tough decisions on where to cut program costs, the DGF Principal has found a way – with a pledge of monetary support from the community – to keep tackle football at DGF High School for at least one more year.

"We're going to have football an additional year," said Mr. E. B. Stafford, high school principal. "We do not want to get rid of football and we've been able to save money in some areas and the community Booster Club has pledged support," he said.

The exact amount of support is unknown at this time but Stafford said the Admirals football team will play one less away game this next season and that out-country travelling squads for all sporting teams are being reduced some.

"Less kids will travel outside of Spain in all sports," said Stafford. The principal doesn't believe that reduction will affect the programs for a variety of reasons.

"Every kid that traveled was not guaranteed to play," he said in-

"We've been able to save money in some areas and the community booster club has pledged support. We're going to have football an additional year."

ferring that the small cut in travel squad size probably won't affect the team's performance. Also, he said that school enrollment is expected to decline some, meaning a corresponding reduction in the number of students going out for different sports.

Last month, DGF officials announced they were considering cutting the football program from the school extra curricular activity docket in an effort to save money so they could afford other programs and activities.

With the pledged community support and internal cuts, Stafford is able to afford football this coming year, but he's not promising anything for years to follow.

"It'll all once again be a financial decision – to have football or any other sport without competing with the operational school budget," he said.

"But this year, we're going to have football."

Patrulla Aguila, Spanish Flotilla wow crowds at Rota Air Show

JOC Ricky Allen
Rota Coastline

More than twelve thousand people attended Rota Airshow 2000 Saturday featuring both U.S. and Spanish aviation unit.

The show highlighted aviation from the Air Force Thunderbirds and the Spanish Patrulla Aguila demonstration team.

The show began with the Thunderbirds performance. The Thunderbirds dazzled the audience with several tricks of aviation that defied gravity and speed. The audience also had a chance to obtain souvenirs from the show from several cassettes set up along the flight line.

The air show had several aircraft set up for display on the flight line for display, giving the crowd a first hand look at both American and Spanish aircraft.

The Spanish Navy demonstrated their aerial performances with help from their sea-based helicopters and the AV-8 Harrier.

ET3 Shay Thompson of the Ground electronics maintenance division, said this was only his second time attending an air show and was very pleased with the performances.

"I was very impressed with the Spanish Aguila demonstration team. The team performed many aerial stunts many people have never seen.

"Everybody did a truly extraordinary job in making the show a success. The Thunderbirds put the show on the right track and Spanish Patrulla Aguila gave a outstanding at the end," said LNCM Duane Ramey from the Navy Legal Service Office.

Rota's Toastmaster Chapter held its charter ceremony Saturday at the Hotel Caribe. The ceremony was to officially recognize Rota's Toastmasters club as one of the several Toastmaster clubs located in Europe, and there were several representatives of from Belgium and Madrid.

The ceremony was opened with a table topics session lead by Cynthia Downey. Afterwards, dinner was served and Pedro Javier Moya gave the first speech of the day followed by Jackie Monroy. Club President Terry Giles was presented with the club's charter, and the introduction of club officers were announced. At the end of the evening, Giles finished with his speech followed by the closing of the charter ceremony.

The local Rota Toastmaster Chapter was established in the early 1980's. However, the club

H.S. football is life to American boys

I recently read your article in the Coastline stating that you will be cutting the football program. My family and I moved to Rota in November. I never got to see to any high school football. I was very disappointed.

Upon reading that article it brought shock to my family. The thought of a military family moving to a base in a foreign country with no high school football is tragic.

High school football is life to American boys in their teens. We are American. Sitting in the stands, eating hotdogs, talking about who's going to be the next Barry Sanders or the next Randy Moss, watching those kids give every bit of energy they have until the last second is football!

Football made me want to do well in school because I knew if my grades weren't where they should be, my father (although it would break his heart) would take that away.

Mr. Principal have you ever lined up across from a rival with sweat dripping down your face when it's 50 degrees outside, really digging down deep so you could open that hole for your running back to get that winning touchdown?

If you have, then cutting the football program wouldn't even be an option. Although my kids are only 3 and 5 and won't get to play for a couple of years, I still love the gut feeling I get when I hear those pads popping.

Don't take that feeling away. If you've ever done something you were proud of, I promise this would be it.

Radley Espadron

Minnesota professional champions

In regards to your article on the Lakers, you state that the Lakers never won a title until they moved from Minnesota.

In 1952, 53, 54, the Minneapolis Lakers with George Mikan and Vern Mickelson won the NBA title. George Mikan was known as the first big man in the NBA, and he won the MVP of the Championship series.

The Lakers played amateur and independent teams from the surrounding area. My father played for the Andover Indies (South Dakota) and they played the Lakers.

The game they played was only the 3rd game the Andover Indies lost in their entire history.

NEWS BRIEFS

NEX changes policy on catalog orders to Rota

There is a new policy for the NEX catalog which affects shipments to Rota. Effective June 1, items that are marked "Conus addresses only" in the Exchange Mail Order Catalog are available to Rota customers. The catalog will begin shipping such items directly to the Navy Exchanges in Europe, Keflavik and the Ship Store in Bahrain.

These items are clearly marked in the catalog and include the following categories of merchandise: large toy items; bikes; luggage; wheel chairs; TV's; furniture; cribs; beds; strollers; and other items. There is no extra charge for this service. To place an order for these larger items, all you have to do is notify the Exchange Catalog order clerk over the telephone that you want the merchandise to be shipped to the "NEX" in Rota. The merchandise must be paid in full at the time of the order. The catalog clerk will give you an order number for tracking purposes.

The Exchange Mail Order Catalog will then supply the NEXCOM Traffic Department in San Diego with the specific customer information regarding the order and destination. This information will be available in a "FAST" tracking program, which you can easily access from NEX representatives and check the current status on your order. The NEX will notify you when the merchandise arrives at Rota and is ready to be picked up. For further details, contact the Rota NEX.

Hospital Corps turns 102

The Hospital Corps will celebrate 102 years of existence Saturday since being founded back on June 17, 1898. The group of enlisted medical personnel came into existence as an organized unit of the Medical Department under the provisions of an act of Congress.

Corpsman have served in all military wars and campaigns, and during World War II, a total of 15 Navy enlisted men were awarded the Medal of Honor; of that number, seven were Hospital Corpsman. Soon after WWII, on April 2, 1948, the names of the Hospital Corps ratings were changed to read what they are known as today.

Hospital Corpsman truly felt the brunt of the Vietnam conflict. More than 600 were killed or mortally wounded and nearly 3,400 were wounded in action in Vietnam. Awards for gallantry and intrepidity in action included three Medals of Honor, 29 Navy Crosses, 127 Silver Stars, 2 Legions of Merit, 290 Bronze Stars, and 4,563 Purple Hearts.

More than 200 Corpsman serve at Naval Hospital Rota, while about 24 others work at other commands in Rota.

Standing tall: Rota program teaches kids to stick out their necks, to make positive difference

JOC Jon McMillan
Rota Coastline

Nearly 150 Rota kids from DGF Elementary School are graduating from a special program that helped each of them become a little stronger, stand a little taller and walk a little surer.

The students, all in the first through fourth grades, listened to stories about contemporary heroes, sought out local heroes and told their stories and planned specific projects to help the local community — making them heroes in their own right.

The program that has given all this to the kids is the Giraffe program. It's a character-based course that teaches kids personal courage, caring for others, and being responsible. "The idea is to get kids to stick their neck out for the community," said Denise Hopkins, program coordinator.

Six elementary school classes participated in the program. "It really gives them a good foundation," said Hopkins. "The kids benefit because this is not just a lecture program. The kids learn a lot of teamwork and when they complete their projects, they feel like they've accomplished something."

That's because they did. Some classes conducted letter-writing campaigns to the United States President and Congress. Other classes developed educational plays and went around the school performing and educating at the same time.

"The school really likes the program because it emphasizes character," said Hopkins.

The program is run entirely by volunteers. Hopkins has been with the Giraffe program for three years and said Giraffe really needs volunteers for next year. "We need volunteers if the program is going to continue," she said. Hopkins leaves Spain this summer — leaving the program without a coordinator.

"It's really a great opportunity to volunteer," she said. "It benefits the kids, the community and yourself. The most rewarding part of it all is when the kids realize what the giraffes on the side of school mean — that they're not just a school mascot. To see the kids really get it — that's rewarding."

Persons interested in volunteering for the Giraffe program next year should contact Hopkins at 956-84-0172 or the Elementary School Office.

Soul Food dinner held at DGF

J03 Ricky Allen
Rota Coastline

Parents of the DGF Boys Basketball Team held a dinner Sunday from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the DGF Multi-purpose room.

The dinner was held to help raise funds for the team's trip to the United States for summer basketball camp.

According to Linda Coates, one of the coordinators of the dinner, this was a chance for the community, especially the parents, to contribute to a great cause.

"With the children being overseas, they need all the support and participation from the community they can get when events of this type are in progress," she said.

She also added that it's important for parents to maintain their role in participation and contribution in events such as these. "We as parents and concerned adults should always take out time to help our children and contribute as much as we can when we are able to," Coates said.

Nancy Cruz, one of the participants said that it was an excellent fund raising idea. "This is going to really benefit the basketball team," she said.

"This [also] teaches the children responsibility. They went out, sold their tickets, and helped bring this dinner together and that is what we wanted to teach," said Cruz.

There was an assortment of food to choose from at the Soul Food dinner sponsored by DGF parents and volunteers.

"I think the soul food dinner was a great idea because the funds are going to a good cause. The food was great and I really enjoyed myself," said SK2 Chuck Wood of the Naval Media Center.

F-15 Fighting Falcon

JO3 Ricky Allen
Rota Coastline

Known for its dazzling maneuverability, incredible speeds, and the role it plays in the United States Air Force, the F-16 Fighting Falcon has become part of an historical aviation family. The Falcon is the fighter that the Thunderbirds fly. Its sleek design and striped decals makes this plane one of the most recognized aerial assault fighters in the world. Even though the Thunderbirds use the plane for its shows, the only modifications made for performance are the installation of a smoke generator in the space normally reserved for the 20mm cannon, and the paint job.

Before the F-16, many airplanes have done the Thunderbird tour of duty with the "Ambassadors in Blue."

The Thunderbirds were activated June 1 1953 at Luke Air Force Base in Arizona, and along with them the beginning history of their aircraft. The first aircraft used was the straight-winged F-84G Thunderjet. The jet's recent use was for action in the Korean Conflict. In 1955, the Thunderjet was relieved by the F-84F Thunderstreak. Two years later the team would trade in the F-84 for the F-100 Super-Sabre. The Sabre would prove its usefulness for a total of thirteen years. A total of one thousand demonstrations were performed with the Sabre.

After the Sabre's tour ended with the T-Birds, they would move on to use the services of the Republic F-105 Thunderchief, but returning to the F-100 after only six shows due to the Thunderchief's extensive modifications. The Thunderbirds would then move on to use the services of the F-4 E Phantom from 1969 to 1973, and the T-38 Talon in 1974.

To retain manpower and using up-to-date technology, the Thunderbirds matured to the F-16 A. From this point they would use the F-16A until 1990, converting to the F-16C in 1992.

"This takes months of planning, a lot of cooperation from the host countries, host base and the Thunderbird team," said Technical Sergeant Michael Deviner, the Non-Commissioned Officer in Charge of Maintenance Operations.

Constant maintenance is done to the plane everyday to ensure readiness for performance. The crew chief, the person in charge of the planes operational readiness, takes charge of this work load everyday with the guarantee that when the Thunderbirds prepare for the next demonstration, everything is one-hundred percent ready.

Staff Sgt. Ken Ivelene, crew chief, number 5-air plane said that work is easy when you have a good crew working together with the same goals and intentions.

"With the teamwork we have out here and the equipment, it's not that hard at all to prepare for a show," Ivelene said.

He added that actual preparation for a demonstration does not involve long work hours.

"It takes about four hours before they take to the air, and we take four to five hours afterwards to prepare for the next show," he said.

Throughout the years, the Thunderbirds may have changed their look several times, but the mission objective never changes—being the Ambassadors in Blue. Representing the United States with pride and valor has and will always be a part of their performance, and it shows through the planes they fly.

Summer time fun to expand your child's learning experiences

Jennifer Cuellar and Laurie Reames
DGF Elementary School

As suggested by Sharon and Clarence Johnson, authors of the Families and Schools Together (FAST) program, you and your child can create an "Adventure Box" or a "Special Activity Box".

On index cards indicate (you may use drawings for younger children) special activities or adventures from which your child can select. Use different sections in the box to indicate daily, weekly, or once-only selections.

Daily selections could include having a book read to the child, scheduled time with one parent to do something special (for example, take a nature walk, share ideas and feelings, ride bikes together); weekly selections could include a visit to a science museum, going to a movie, baking cookies, designing a special project (for example, a family tree, family journal, a "circus" or other performance).

Once-only selections would include two or three special activities the child can anticipate and help plan.

The nature of the activities would depend on the age of the child, but even adolescents will enjoy the process of planning when they have choices.

You can easily incorporate reinforcements of learned skills into your summer activities by trying some of the following activities:

- If you feel your child needs practice in dealing with money one activity card may be to set up a Pretend Store in which you both can price, buy and sell.

- At the beach collect shells and later count and sort them into different groups. Sorting and classifying are two skills important in math and science. You can also use them to decorate frames or to create art projects.

- As you visit towns and cities during the summer buy a post card and have your child write something about that visit. Punch a hole in one corner and tie the cards together with a ribbon for an instant mini travel book!

- Mix up some homemade play dough for hours of fun and sculpture! Modeling with clay or play dough is good for fine motor skills, and sculptures can correlate with a mini-study of sea creatures, shapes, letters, insects or whatever you and your child are interested in at the time.

- For some math fun go to a "Hundred Peseta Store" and challenge your child to find different combinations of items to the set amount of pesetas he or she has.

- Even a trip to the pizza place or making your own pizza can be a time of brushing up on fractions.

- Writing letters is a great way to practice writing and penmanship—getting letters is the fun part!

- Don't forget to add in plenty of library visits during the long summer months.

Brainstorm together with your children to create the activity cards early enough so you have time make sure the supplies you need are on hand.

You can all look forward to a summer filled with great learning experiences.

High School Students overcome 'phobia'

Eric Flagg,
Rota Coastline

Do you shiver or tremble at the mere thought of giving a speech in front of a large audience? Then you probably have 'PSSSS' (Public Speaking Scared Stiff Syndrome).

On June 1, the DGF High School AVID class overcame their 'PSSSS'. Students gave their graduation speeches in front of a large audience. The graduation speech was the last part of a six-week Toastmasters Speechcraft curriculum outline. The ceremony was held at the Parent Connection Room.

"Now they (AVID students) have become better communicators, future leaders and good listeners," says TM (Toastmaster) Mike Monroy when asked if he thought that the objectives of the Speechcraft workshop had been accomplished. Speechcraft is a program, which helps students develop their public speaking skills.

"Toastmasters is an excellent course that teaches speaking skills. People should get involved in Toastmasters," says AVID junior John Gromer.

AVID students participated in the six-week Speechcraft lesson. During these six weeks, students produced many different types of speeches. The first speech, The Ice Breaker Speech, was designed so the students introduced themselves to the class. After this assignment, students gave a second speech on 'Being Earnest' in which students had to convince an audience about conviction. Some subjects that came up in the speeches were terrorism, hypocrisy and BMX racing. The last speech was 'Organize your speech' in which the students had to 'organize their speech' by building a speech outline with an opening, body, and conclusion.

"After a lot of practicing (on speeches) I got use to being in front of a large audience," says AVID sophomore Chris Heatherdale when asked how Speechcraft has helped him.

Other important subjects that were 'hit' upon during the course were body language, voice intonation, table topics (students improvised a speech about a given subject and gave it under 30 seconds, a favorite), and eye contact.

The Al-Andalus Toastmasters group dedicated an hour and a half a week to the AVID students. During this hour and a half, the Toastmasters helped the students by giving exemplary speeches and evaluating student speeches.

Rota's Toastmasters and DGF's AVID class worked together on improving the students' speech writing and delivery.

"It was a wonderful experience... if there was a generation gap, there isn't one now," says TM Mike Monroy.

Among others that attended the graduation ceremony were DGF High School Principal, Mr. E.B. Stafford, the Vice-principal, Mr.

Robert Cider and Mr. Giles, Toastmaster head.

The Toastmasters club meets every Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at the Family Service Center in the ICR room. For more information about Toastmasters Al-Andalus club, call Sherry Caudell at 956-84-1330.

soon faded away years later due to members transferring to other duty stations. Cynthia Downey, Public Relations Officer for the Toastmasters, said that the club has a lot to offer for those looking to be active in the community.

"If somebody wants to do service in the community, this is a perfect way to become involved quickly and be able to meet people along the way," she said.

The Toastmaster organization is designed to help with public speaking and presentation of material during lectures, seminars, training, and other events of the type. According to Downey, this is an essential tool for those who have difficulties in the area of presenting material and public speaking.

"The organization is designed to help public speaking skills, listening skills, and presentations. It teaches people a better way of delivering information and also helps you speak a lot better when at meetings, job interviews, or in class presenting material," said Downey.

Norfolk runway repairs completed

The repairs on the Naval Station, Norfolk runway have been completed and the normal operations of the runway will resume Sunday.

The runway was closed for repairs in late April and was scheduled to be closed for up to 90 days. While under repair, passengers were bussed to the base from Langley AFB.

Ubrique

If leather's your bag...then Ubrique's your town! The leather industry of Ubrique dates back hundreds of years, and today the town produces leather that is shipped around the world. Leather, however, is only one part of this town, a town which has its own unique charm and style.

Nestled on the foot of the Sierra de Ubrique is the town of the same name which is one of the eight towns that make up the Pueblos Blancos. These towns are known for their whitewashed look in the Moorish tradition and have remained basically unchanged for centuries. Primarily fortified hilltop towns and villages, they consist of Arcos de la Frontera; Ubrique; Zahara de la Sierra; Grazalema; Setenil; Ronda; Gaucin; and Jimena de la Frontera. A driving tour beginning with Arcos de la Frontera and ending with Jimena de la Frontera is about 127 miles, and will take you through all the towns.

A walk through the streets of Ubrique (which is the primary way to get around toward the higher-elevated areas) produces some truly enjoyable sites of homes and shops of Moorish architecture, as well as some remarkable views of the white houses in the town below. As you pass through the shops, there is one thing that stands out....leather.

HOW TO GET THERE

Take the N342 out of Jerez. At Arcos de la Frontera, get off the N342 and take the C44 towards El Bosque. At El Bosque head south on the only road out of town until you hit Ubrique.

Ubrique has only about 20,000 residents, but has developed an important leather goods industry, which has become the main source of local income, as well as providing most of the employment in the area. It is one of the largest producers in Andalusia, with exports throughout Europe, Canada, the United States and Japan, as well all of Spain.

The leather industry for Ubrique dates back hundreds of years ago during the Roman times when work was centered on tanning the leather of their stock. It was in the 18th and 19th centuries that craftsmen and women from Ubrique combined tanning leather with making bags and sandals. The people living in the mountains came to Ubrique for their leather bags and shoes when they came down to harvest.

However, it wasn't until the 1960s that the leather industry of the town began to take off after production of leather goods increased and the name of Ubrique became a brand name and a sign of quality and distinction. Dozens of small shops turn out handbags and wallets for top brand names. You can often see them working at the shops that bear the sign, "fabrica propia", (our own make) as you stroll down the streets.

Whether just sightseeing or shopping, Ubrique is one town worth putting on your "to visit" list while here in southern Spain.

Father's Day: Anyone can be a father

When our first child was born a friend gave me a cuff-link box that says, "Anyone can be a father; it takes someone special to be a dad." I didn't understand that at first, but I began to understand when my wife said, "It's your turn to change the diaper."

You become a father in a moment of love. You become a dad in a lifetime of love. You learn to like Sesame Street and Winnie the Pooh and you think that your child's first footsteps are one great leap for mankind.

In his book entitled "Fatherhood" Bill Cosby writes about

by Chaplain Steve Beyer

the kinds of gifts we get for Father's Day.

"For just one Father's Day," he writes, "I would like the kids to forget about the underpants, the tie and the tin trophy saying 'World's Greatest Father' and instead surprise me with a Mercedes. Just put two hundred dollars down and I'll gladly finish the payments." "It will never happen, of course, because fathers are good actors who lie well. A father can sound convincing when he says he's delighted to have another bottle of Old Spice because he is down to his last six."

Happy Father's Day, dads! And kids, if you haven't bought that bottle of cologne yet, why not consider a shiny new car? I guarantee that dad will be surprised!

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Calling All Methodists...To Confirmation!

Methodists form one of the largest groupings of Protestants in the world. In fact, the United Methodist Church is the second largest Protestant denomination in the United States. Add the memberships of other Methodist bodies such as the African Methodist Episcopal Church, A.M.E. Zion and Christian Methodist Episcopal Church and you now have a fellowship of Christian believers that is truly worldwide.

For Methodists, Confirmation forms an important element in the process of spiritual formation. Confirmation has been called a "rite of intensification." It is a time when young people explore the content of their religion and intensify their commitment to Christ through a public profession of faith. If your child was baptized in any one of the many Methodist denominations or you have a child who wants to explore this faith then you may want to encourage their enrollment in the upcoming Confirmation class to be taught by Chaplains Taylor and Gore.

To be eligible for participation, your child must be entering either the 7th, 8th, or 9th grades in the fall. Classes will be held in the Chapel from 10:00-11:30 a.m. the week of July 17th and from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon at DGF during the week of August 7th in conjunction with this year's Vacation Bible School. Call Chaplain Taylor at ext.3561/3640.

Men's Bible Study

Men's Bible Study begins June 20 at the chapel hall. From 11:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m. every Tuesday, we will study the names of God and learn about His different attributes. Questions? Call Chaplain Witt at ext.2161.

PUBLISHER'S CORNER

with Karen Lucas

Happy Father's Day to all the dads out there! If you are still looking for something to give dad on his special day, stop by Hobby World in Rota. Every time I go in there, I see more things. Of course, the place is new so they are still receiving merchandise. What caught my eye last week were old-style tin toys....several wind-up things such as little ducks, tops and miscellaneous other things. They are really neat, stop by and take a look.

There is a tapa promotion going on in Puerto... "de TAPEO por EL PUERTO" on Fridays from 2 to 4 p.m. It started this past Friday and will continue on the 16th, 23rd, and 30th of this month. If you order a fino, a beer or a soft drink from 2 to 4 p.m. in one of the participating establishments, you will get their tapa of the day. Participating establishments will have the poster "de TAPEO por EL PUERTO" displayed. A few of the places are: Bodega del Bar Jamón, Restaurante Taberna de Cañero and across the street from it, the new Bar-Cervecería La Espiga.

Pancho Villa's restaurant in Vistahermosa has changed to summer hours. They now open from 6 p.m. to 1 a.m. Tuesday through Friday; the kitchen is open on Saturday and Sunday from 2 to 5 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. and the bar from 2 p.m. until 1 a.m. They still close Mondays. They are going to have several new items on the menu starting on the 25th of this month. I'll tell you what they are next week. By the way, the waitresses have changed to their summer attire and they are wearing real cute Mexican inspired dresses.

We have an ad from the Airtel phone dealer on Avenida San Fernando in Rota (Geico is in the same office). They sell mobile phones, accessories and internet connections. There are a lot of different types of contracts and pre-paid phone cards so you can choose the one that best suits your needs. Take in the ad and get 15% off on accessories. They do speak English.

Restaurante La Cazuela in Rota, has added paella to its regular specialties. I have been told that they make real good ones. This one is for any of you soccer fans out there. You will be able to watch the Eurocup games that Spain plays in on BIG (4 x 2.5m) screen T.V. at the Casino Bahía de Cádiz. They will raffle off gifts among those in attendance.

Let's hear from you! Share with other readers information about the surrounding area: your favorite spots and shops. Contact me by e-mail at COASTPUB@santandersuper.net or at coastpub@retemail.es, by fax at 956-542997 or by phone at 956-542997 or 607-564132

DRIVE - IN

Friday – Mission Impossible 2 (PG-13)
Saturday – Dinosaur (PG)
Sunday – Gossip (R)

Drive-in movies
begin around 10:30 p.m.

Keeping The Faith (PG-13- for sexuality and language) Romance/Comedy; Ed Norton, Jenna Elfman (129 min) Best friends, a priest and a rabbi both fall in love with the same woman. However, neither of the men can pursue the relationship due to their religious beliefs: The priest has taken a vow of celibacy and the rabbi can't marry her because she is not Jewish.

Mission: Impossible 2 (PG-13- for violent action and some sensuality) Action/Adventure; Tom Cruise, Anthony Hopkins, Ving Rhames, Dougray Scott, Thandie Newton, and Steve Zahn (126 min) Tom Cruise reprises his role as agent Ethan Hunt for director John Woo. Ethan Hunt leads his IMF team to re-capture and destroy a deadly manufactured virus before it falls into the wrong hands.

Battlefield Earth (PG-13- for intense sci-fi action) Science Fiction Fantasy; John Travolta, Barry Pepper (117 min) In the year 3000, man is no match for a manipulative race of aliens on a quest for global domination who take all the earth's resources for themselves and ignore the human pests.... Until one man decides to leave his Rocky Mountain home and take a final courageous stand.

The Flintstones in Viva Rock Vegas (PG- for innuendo and brief language) Comedy/Adventure; Mark Addy, Stephen Baldwin, Kristen Johnston, Jane Krakowski (91 min.) Everyone's favorite Stone Age family is back. This time the story takes a step further back in time when Fred Flintstone courts a beautiful young heiress Wilma Slaghoople. Along with Barney and Betty, the couples head for a romantic weekend in Rock Vegas.

U-571 (PG-13- for war violence) Drama/Thriller; Matthew McConaughey & Jon Bon Jovi (108 min.) A World War II drama about an American submarine crew's battle against time and their own fears while carrying out a daring mission to capture a top secret encrypting device from a Nazi U-boat.

Dinosaur (PG- for thematic elements) Adventure; D.B. Sweeney, Julianna Margulies (82 min.) At the end of the Mesozoic era, in the twilight days of his time on earth, a dinosaur raised by mammals leads his friends to safety after a killer comet ends the age when his kind ruled the planet.

PRAYER

Prayer to St. Jude: To be said when problems arise or when one seems to be deprived of all visible help, or for cases almost despaired of. Most holy apostle, St. Jude, faithful servant and friend of Jesus, the Church honors and invokes you universally, as the patron of hopeless cases, of things almost despaired of. Pray for me, I am so helpless and alone. Make use I implore you, of that particular privilege given to you, to bring visible and speedy help where help is almost despaired of. Come to my assistance in this great need that I may receive the consolation and help of heaven in all my necessities, tribulations, and sufferings, particularly (here make your request) and that I may praise God with you and all the elect forever. I promise, O blessed St. Jude, to be ever mindful of this great favor, to always honor you as my special and powerful patron, and to gratefully encourage devotion to you. Amen, Jess López Trends: this week I'd like to spend my space on a few random topics. I want to briefly mention a couple of developing trends in computing.

There is a movement towards something called the virtual office. This is a condition where everything you use to conduct business is web based. There are a few Application Service Providers (ASP) providing virtual office suites so that you can work via the web. You can rent or borrow your favorite word processor, spread sheet, database system or full office suite from an ASP and do your work from anywhere on the planet. What that means is that you and a colleague can collaborate on a word document from opposite ends of the planet or you can manage a database from the beach.

You can download several free office suites (each suite has a small part that has to be loaded on each computer) in anticipation of the day when your Internet connection will be fast enough to do all of your work online. ASP's and their application developers know that average ISP connection speeds are not fast enough to fully support web-based computing so they now depend on a combination of client-server work exchange to do the job.

The March 21, 2000 issue of PC magazine reviewed three: MyFreeDesk (www.myfreedesk.com), NuoMedia (www.nuomedia.com) and ThinkFree Office (www.thinkfree.com). The reviewer also mentioned Sun Microsystems's StarOffice 5.1 and after using it for several months, it's my favorite.

The next exciting move is the move towards wireless computing.

With the new chips currently for sale and in production, Bluetooth for example, more and more devices will be able to use a combination of cellular and computing technology.

This will allow you to connect to the Internet, check your email, surf the web and even check your location without any wires. The movement is strong to relieve us from the messy cable tangle that lurks under every desk and the miles and miles of cable connecting all of our buildings. I know I have fought in that jungle every day for the last two years. I can't wait to rid us of not only the tangle, but also of the need to crawl under a desk and into the ceiling. Today I could here my bones pop even louder as I crawled under another desk to check its cable connections until finally I just stayed on the floor.

Nifty Stuff: while in Chicago I bought a USB (universal serial bus) adapter cable for a normal parallel port printer. At $49.95 it was expensive, but it will let me connect my scanner, Zip drive and one printer via the parallel port and my old Epson to the USB port. I haven't tried it yet, but when I do, I'll let you know how it turns out.

The great thing about USB is that you can plug into the port with the computer running and the computer's operating system (Windows 9x/2000) will instantly recognize the device. Unfortunately, Windows NT 4.0 does not support USB so all of the USB cameras, scanners and printers are useless at our offices that use Windows NT. The good news is that Windows 2000 fully supports both Plug and Play and USB so relief is right around the corner. Some elements on Rota already have test machines running Windows 2000 so it shouldn't be too long in the future before we can use USB stuff.

Questions: Roberto gets the prize with his question concerning his friend's inability to receive his email attachments. Normally the problem of receiving attachments centers on their size.

Many systems administrators automatically filter out attachments larger than 1MB. The next problem is with free email systems like Hotmail and Yahoo. Sometimes they list a link in the email that you have to access before you can see the attachment.

Other times the attachment is downloaded for your correspondent when they open the email, but they don't notice where the attachment is stored on their computer.

Since I don't use either service I'm not that familiar with how they handle attachments. If anyone out there has information that they would like me to share with other users, send me an email at Questions@vista-sun-technology.com.

That's all for this week, Happy computing!

Hatred for the very evil Lakers

Well, with the NBA finals winding down, I want to thank all you yahoos for hounding me nonstop about the god-forsaken Lakers. It's gotten to the point that I can no longer show my face in certain areas of the base without getting mercilessly reminded of the greatness of LA's basketball team. And now you Laker fans have a championship to celebrate. All I can say is enjoy it now before Tim Duncan comes back next year and b-slaps that trophy right outta Kobe's hands. Let's roll...

Just got back from St. Louis where I bore witness to my first interleague game between the Cards and Tribe. Forget Kerry Wood (2-5), Barton Colon is the real deal. He throws nothing but smoke. Big Mac, unfortunately, whiffed three times and sent another into short right field. Beer was $5.25. (I said, "Maam, I'll just take a small beer" and she said "Yeah I know, that's what I'm pouring ya...and it'll be $5.25"). I would have bought the whole case but I only had $120 on me.

Lousy prices aside, it felt great to be in that stadium with 38,000 close friends. The gametime temp was perfect, the night air was crisp, the dogs were great...just a great time all around. I'd buy season tickets if I ever moved back (although my wife will make sure that never happens). On another more depressing subject...

For a long time now, I've disliked the Lakers with an unmitigated zeal. They've always been a wee bit arrogant and way too pretty for my taste. I gleefully sat by as they toiled under the guidance of such non-coaches as Kurt Rambis, Del Harris, and Magic Johnson. They spent the entire decade of the Nineties underachieving. In fact, when you're a Los Angeles Laker, the only other thing to do besides win a championship is underachieve. That's because the deck is so stacked against everybody else. LA has all the advantages. Great weather, a huge national following, excellent vistas and sublime women. What free agent in his right mind would pick Indianapolis over Los Angeles? For this reason, the Lakers have no excuses. They should be producing four champs a decade.

Oh, and did I mention that they are evil? Well, they are. Rooting for them is like wishing Darth Vader would just crush that little rebellion. And that was before they acquired Shaquille O'Neal. With Shaq on the roster, I hate the Lakers with a nuclear capability.

Throughout his career, Shaq has dazzled me with history's greatest display of low-talking idi-

with Russ Gambrel

ocy. Can anyone understand a word this man says? He speaks in "mumble". When I do manage to decipher his words, I'm never less-than-amazed by the stupidity of their content. For about the last 10 years, Shaq's mouth has served as little more than an exit wound.

Remember when he observed, "I've won a championship at every level except college and the pros"? Or when he told EW that "Kazaam" (and subsequently "Steel") would do huge business? The career in rap? Need I go on? When the Lakers finish off the Pacers this week, I'll have no choice but to weep like a little schoolgirl. Shaq will have the one thing folks have ridiculed him for lacking...a championship ring. And considering how self-absorbed the dude's been to this point, imagine the arrogance "post-title". Sometimes life kicks ya in the privates.

On a much nicer topic, I want to thank Fred Babb for filling in for me while I was away. Great article Fred. Too bad about those Northstars.
